New Lux Elements brochure:

Sustainability – The ORIGINAL can do!

Lux Elements published a new brochure in autumn 2019 entitled "Sustainability – The ORIGINAL can do!" In the brochure, the manufacturer describes the production and material properties of its hard foam support elements, focusing on the topics of environmental consciousness and sustainability.

Support for sustainable construction and the use of recyclable building materials have been major concerns for Lux Elements for many years. That is shown, for example, by the fact that the in-house environmentally friendly EPS production is celebrating its 20th anniversary in 2019.

The reader can learn all about the properties and benefits of the hard foam support elements in the new brochure. Descriptive examples explain why these elements are particularly suitable for the use in wet areas.

The brochure is now available for download free of charge at www.luxelements.com, or it can be requested in a printed version using the contact form.
